

Academic Language Skills for Andragogy and Cultural Theory

Code: NEVD13-F103

2015 Spring Semester

Sándor Striker PhD, Associate Professor

Every pair Wednesday 10:30 – 12:00 a.m.

Room 206

Thematic

The aims of the course are:

- to improve the English language capabilities of the aspirants in communicating their research topic
- to accumulate the keywords and key expressions of their fields of research and of their methods applied
- to enable them to present an English summary of their research.

Topics of the individual consultations:

Oral and written professional introduction. CV writing skills for academics.

Outlines of the professional career in Education, Andragogy or Cultural Management.

The build-up for English keywords for a thesis.

Thesis outlines, oral presentation. Accumulating the necessary vocabulary.

Thesis outlines in writing. Presenting the summary of the thesis orally.

Thesis summary in writing. Presentation, evaluation of the summaries.

Evaluation:

Aspirants are to:

- assemble a list of the most important English keywords and key expressions of their field of research (min. 10)
- write a short English summary of their research
- present their summary in English in front of the group and answer questions, if any